BROWN MAKES HIS PLAY TO BE LEADER

KIDS

MUMS will get nine months' maternity leave from April 2007. But dads can take part of the time off instead. Firms will be encouraged to offer workers with kids £50 a week for child care.

TAX

AN extra £1 billion for cash-strapped town halls in a bid to avoid soaring council tax. Last year's increase was a whopping average of 5.9%.

OLD FOLK

AN extra £50 winter fuel payment will go to old folk aged 70 and over. And tax credits for pensioners will rise above inflation, Mr Brown promised.

TERROR

AN extra £105 million for fighting terrorism in the UK, including better surveillance at ports. The cash comes on top of £520 million to fund the continued fighting in Iraq.

DRIVERS

MOTORISTS will escape a planned rise in fuel duty. It has been scrapped because of soaring world oil prices. Petrol tax was due to rise by 1.42p per litre.

KIDS

TRIPPERS who go on a shopping spree overseas may have to pay less. Mr Brown wants the £145 limit on tax-free shopping outside the EU raised.

Mini-budget targets families

GORDON BROWN staked his claim to be PM yesterday by pledging a cash bonanza for families with kids.

The Chancellor announced three extra months off work for new parents - with dads allowed to benefit for the first time.

Giving a glowing Commons report on booming Britain, he also promised more cash handouts and 3,500 kids' centres. And he declared war on the army of work-shy scroungers by sending job snoopers to doctors' surgeries to tackle sick-note skivers.

unveiling a "Ten Year Childcare Strategy".

He pledged a "welfare state that is truly family-friendly for the first time in its history."

But the Tories warned of massive tax rises ahead.

Shadow Chancellor Oliver Letwin claimed there was a £10 billion "black hole" in the Treasury's budget.

Mr Letwin said: "We have paid all the taxes, where has all the money gone?"

Rival

Other measure in his pre-Budget report included:

● Scrapping a planned 1.42p a litre petrol tax hike.

● A £1 billion cash injection to stop massive Council Tax rises.

● More than £100 million for defending Britain from terrorism.

The bonanza was seen as a vote-grabbing election giveaway - and a bid to take over his bitter rival Tony Blair's job.

Mr Brown unashamedly claimed to be Britain's best Chancellor for decades.

He told MPs the economy had "the best combination of low inflation, low unemployment and rising living standards for decades."

With the Prime Minister due to quit within five years, Mr Brown signalled his long-term ambition by

AT A GLANCE

Children: Mums to get nine months maternity leave from April 2007 - but dads can take part of the time. Kids aged three and four to get 15 hours a week free at nurseries from 2007. Kids aged seven to get £500.

Road tax, fuel duty frozen: Planned 1.42p a litre petrol tax hike scrapped and road duty frozen.

Council tax handout: A £1 billion cash injection to stop massive Council Tax rises.

Terror cash: £105 million in pot for defending Britain against terrorism.

Sickies: People on long-term illness to get £40 tax credit a week to go back to work.

Iraq war reserve: There'll be £520 million for a "special reserve" to cover the cost of Britain's military in Iraq and other international obligations.

succeeding Tony Blair as Prime Minister.

But Mr Brown will be judged on his performance over the whole seven years he's been in the job.

We're talking 60-plus stealth taxes, national insurance hikes, the pensions crisis and reckless spending.

We don't want him.

SPENCER'S GOING BACK TO SCHOOL

TORMENTED actor Chris Parker is fleeing Britain to become a student.

The 21-year-old star, right, plans to study law in New York after quitting his £60,000-a-year role as Spencer Moon in EastEnders.

The Daily Star revealed on

EXCLUSIVE by JOE MOTT & TOM SAVAGE

Wednesday how the "burnt-out" actor was leaving the show in the wake of a suicide bid that left him in hospital.

A pal said: "Chris wants to get completely away from showbusiness – he's had enough. He needs to return to a normal life. He's told friends he's going to New York next year to study and make a new life for himself.

"He wants to put his recent experiences behind him and hope that everyone forgets about him."

His shock move comes after he spent three weeks on sick leave following his suicide attempt last month. He was taken to London's St Thomas' Hospital after it was claimed he had slashed his wrists and downed painkillers.

Affair

Pals said he was at the end of his tether following persistent rumours he was gay – which he strongly denies. The final straw came when lapdancer Lucie Clark, 22, told how she'd invented tales of an affair with the star.

His lawyers deny he was in on the con.

An EastEnders source said: "He wants to get back to being Chris Parker, not Spencer Moon."

QUITTER Natalie Appleton, 31, sparked a scare with TV bosses when she went missing from her luxury hotel. They feared the former All Saints star had jetted home.

They finally managed to track down her sister Lee, 35, who'd travelled out to Oz to be with her. And she revealed that Natalie had simply decided to pop out shopping.

JOKER Janet Street-Porter, 57, reckons Paul Burrell is a dead ringer for Toy Story hero Buzz Lightyear. Burrell, 46, said: "It's probably because Buzz Lightyear has a lantern jaw like mine. I'm constantly getting ribbed about it but I don't care. I have been called a lot worse things."

TELLY star Graham Norton, 41, wants his chat show back - so he can talk about I'm A Celebrity.

He said: "Watching I'm A Celebrity, I think, 'I wish I had a show!' Just to steer the public in voting. I can't bear the idea that people are beginning to like Paul Burrell."

"The man actually shaves his armpits! That man has been dipped in wax! But I totally love Janet, bless her."

SINGER Brian Harvey says walking out of the jungle has left him out of pocket - because he'll have to repay his mates who bet on him to win.

Brian, 30, who left the camp last Friday, said: "I'll have to nip round and give them their 20 quids back!"

PUNTERS who fancy tackling a Bush-tucker Trial will get the chance tomorrow. Show sponsor First Choice Travel will be serving up worms and crickets at its Castle Mall store in Norwich.

busty Jordan

SIZZLING Sophie Anderton has turned strip teaser in a bid to stay in the TV jungle - and become even bigger than Jordan

The 27-year-old beauty, under fire for being lazy in the camp, has declared she plans to win the public vote and come out on top as I'm A Celeb's top model.

Busty Jordan, 26, real name Kate Price, made it to the final five in the last series of the hit ITV show earlier this year. Now Sophie is in the final six - and aims to beat her rival's jungle record.

Stunned

As part of her bid to woo male viewers, Sophie yesterday cut up her red shorts to create a tiny mini-skirt. She also flashed the flesh in her bikini as she took a dip in the camp.

She said: "I'm sure no other model apart from me and Jordan has got this far in the competition. I'd love to hang on longer. I think the viewers are keeping me in as eye candy. But I hope they're also seeing my personality. I'm not just sugar candy for the boys."

Babes from previous series Alex Best, Nell McAndrew and Catalina Guirado have all done well, but none has ever been crowned Queen of the Jungle.

Janet Street-Porter, 57, told Sophie: "You could be a record breaker!" But she added: "I think you're still here because you're the new Natalie."

Stunned Sophie said: "I don't think I am as neurotic as her!"

by PETER DYKE
in Australia

But she is finding it hard to hack jungle life. Earlier this week, we told how she was on the verge of quitting. And yesterday, she again showed signs that she may throw in the towel. "I'm going to hide under my sheet all day and see if that works," she said, hoping fans would not vote for her to stay. Janet told her: "It's not going to work, because they are going to keep voting you in."

Sophie shouted: "Oh f it. Fity, fity, fity! Another bloody day in paradise."

But Sophie soon realised she'd have to cope if she was going to beat Jordan. She said: "We've only got a few days. It's not that bad."

Janet later griped to the others of Sophie: "I haven't had the luxury of lying on my bed claiming I feel 'tired' all day."

"Sophie is adorable as a person, but it's hard for everyone."

JANET'S DEADLY SECRET

JUNGLE fave Janet Street-Porter is hiding a sensational secret from her camp pals - as a kid, she plotted to murder her little sister Pat because she didn't like her.

Janet, 57, made the confession in her autobiography. A show source said: "Maybe it's just as well the likes of Sophie Anderton don't know her dark past. They'd be quaking in their hammocks every time they had a row."

CHARGE HAND: Burrell's antics are a hit with gay jungle fans

Pictures: ITV/Rex

CAMP Paul Burrell could become king of the jungle after gay punters lined up to get behind him – at the bookies.

Thousands have been queuing to back the former royal butler with their pink pounds since he started singing show tunes and dressing up.

Gay fan Darren Davis, 25, from St Helens, Merseyside, said: "Paul seems a great guy – certainly the campest contestant. He's already shown he is into musicals and is a massive fan of The Wizard of Oz. If he carries on the way he is going, he will return to Britain as a gay icon."

Bookmakers Totesport have cut his odds on winning from 6-1 to 9-2. Spokesman Paul Petrie, referring to a famous gay hang out in London, said: "We have seen plenty of action for Paul Burrell over the past few days. There is no doubt he has the support of Old Compton Street."

Ladbroke's spokesman Warren Lush said: "Paul's camp behaviour has been a hit with the viewers."

"We have seen the colour of money for Paul – and we suspect a lot of it is pink."

Dave Stevens, of Coral, added: "Our betting shops in Brighton have seen a lot of trade."

Back in the jungle, Burrell was camp leader yesterday, demanding everyone did chores and CUDDLED each other to raise morale.

But his day as head of the jungle household ended in a near rebellion – thanks to Janet Street-Porter.

Burrell said: "My objective is to pull together as a family and treat each other like you would treat your own."

"Now there are only six of us I think it is very important for us to be more together than before. We are a harmonious family."

Burrell was also told by producers to kick off a chat – about something other than movies.

He said: "We will have conversations around the camp fire as a unit."

Spat

"We are left with a very nice bunch of people and I like everyone in camp and I hope everybody likes me."

But as Burrell did some washing he re-ignited his spat with Janet.

Repeating a line from a Sister Sledge song – which is a gay anthem – he told her: "We are family."

Janet, 57, moaned: "Oh God, it's going to be like Thought for the Day – all bloody day."

"No it's not," Burrell hit back. "Just think of a nice topic of conversation that we can all join in."

Janet then said: "Funnily enough Paul, we manage that every night."

"Hey," said an annoyed Burrell. "I'm camp leader – not you!"

Hackles rising, Janet said: "Don't patronise me. You are beginning to lose it."

Burrell then read out the list of chores: "Look after emus Ant and Dec, collect wood, clean the dunny – and give each other a big CUDDLE."

"A a a r g h!" shrieked Janet – but she did join in the group hug.

Dejected after his day in charge, he trooped off to the Bush Telegraph as darkness fell.

"Being a leader is a thankless task," he said.

Fran in crocky horror

by MARK JEFFERIES

JUNGLE hunk Fran Cosgrave was forced to tackle a Bushtucker Trial that Natalie Appleton failed – but with added dangers.

The nightclub owner swam in a lagoon infested with crocs and snakes in a re-run of Slither River.

First time around Nat had struggled to release a series of buoys which were tied down to the river bed and managed just one meal for the camp before quitting.

But the trials team thought another celeb should have a go and made it even "nastier" by adding extra jungle critters.

Perspex boxes containing snakes were hung above the lagoon to be released at intervals into the water.

But confident Cosgrave, 26, said before his test: "I like snakes."

Whacked

Then presenter Dec told him: "There's a few other bits and bobs in there as well."

Referring to Fran's previous trial in which his nether regions were bitten he said: "If I have a fing snake in my shorts this time it could be worse than the lobster!"

Three crocs were put in the water although breathless Fran still managed to bag three medals.

But he smashed his head on one of the buoys and needed a check up from the camp doctor.

Fran said: "I'm a bit disappointed. I stopped because I whacked my head."

On swimming with crocs he added: "They're all right, I don't mind them."

Jord's JUNGLE VERDICT

JORDAN reckons Janet Street-Porter has the hots for Paul Burrell – even though she's always shouting at him.

The Brighton babe – real name Kate Price – claims she used the same tactic in the jungle when she was trying to pull Peter Andre.

Jordan, 26, said: "I like Paul, and I think Janet does too."

"When I was in there,

by MARK JEFFERIES

I used to be horrible to Peter, but secretly I really wanted him to like me.

"Janet is doing the same thing."

While 47-year-old butler Paul has grown on Jordan, she had nothing good to say about evicted Sheila Ferguson.

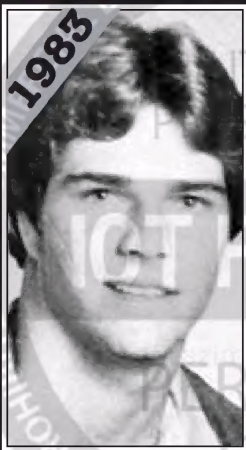

"Sheila was lazy in there," said Jordan. "And what she said about Sophie when she came out was not on."

Jordan's opinions on Sheila were backed up by Peter Andre, 31, who's now her fiancé.

"Sheila said what she said about Sophie when it was live TV," added Peter.

"She has no excuses – I think she should be given the third degree when she comes back."

A SMIRKING sharp-shooter jailed for life yesterday for killing a policeman was a hitman on the run for murder, the Daily Star can reveal.

Former US Marine David Bieber, 33, one of America's most wanted men, had pumped himself full of steroids to turn himself into an Arnold Schwarzenegger-style Terminator.

He fled the States after hiring a contract killer to bump off his love rival and ex-girlfriend. Then he sneaked into Britain on a tourist visa, assuming the identity of Nathan Wayne Coleman – the dead six-year-old son of a US policeman.

Bieber then set himself up as an assassin operating freely across Europe for eight years.

But he was finally caught after killing Pc Ian Broadhurst – because he left his DNA on a chocolate wrapper at the scene in Leeds.

Hit

Bieber, who won a "sharp shooter" award as a US Marine, opened fire on the officer and two colleagues when they tried to arrest him at the wheel of a stolen BMW on Boxing Day last year.

Detectives believe he was about to carry out a hit and realised the officers would unearth his evil secret.

He shot Pc Broadhurst, 34, in the chest, then blasted him again in the head as he lay on the ground begging for mercy. Pc Neil Roper, 45, was shot twice and only survived after emergency surgery. Pc James Banks, 27, cheated death when a bullet hit his radio.

Bieber then hijacked a car at gunpoint and went on the run, drawing out £6,000 cash and dyeing his hair orange.

He was arrested five days later at a hotel in Gateshead, Tyne and Wear, and the murder weapon was under his mattress. Bodybuilder Bieber, a steroid addict who was named Mr South East USA in 1992, claimed the shootings were carried out by a pal he refused to name.

EXCLUSIVE

by JERRY LAWTON

But police found his DNA on the trigger of the gun – and on a chocolate wrapper in the back of the police patrol car.

Bieber smirked in the dock yesterday as the jury at Newcastle Crown Court convicted him of murder, two charges of attempted murder and possessing a firearm and 220 rounds of ammunition.

Mr Justice Moses gave him three life sentences, ordering him to spend the rest of his life in jail.

If he'd been caught in his native Florida, he would be facing the death penalty.

The judge told him: "You have shown no remorse for, or even understanding of, the brutality of Pc Broadhurst's murder."

"To shoot and kill an officer in such circumstances – doing no more than trying to serve us all – is an attack on all of us."

Visa

Last night, Interpol officers were probing a series of unsolved underworld shootings across Europe to find out whether Bieber was responsible.

A senior police source told the Daily Star: "Who knows how many 'contracts' he fulfilled."

Bieber arrived in the UK on a six-month tourist visa. Just 17 days before he was due to be kicked out, he wed Brit Denise Corbally. The marriage lasted less than a year.

Pc Broadhurst's colleagues last night demanded an investigation into why the Home Office allowed him into the country.

One said: "This man is pure evil. What sticks in many people's throats is it could have been avoided. He should never have been allowed into Britain."

DNA CLUE: The gun

CACHE: Bieber's ammo

HAUNTED: Eilisa

THE tragic widow of shot bobby Ian Broadhurst sobbed last night as she told how she was haunted by her decision not to have his baby.

Eilisa Broadhurst wanted to wait to start a family while Ian wanted children straight away. She said: "You think you have for ever. Ian wanted children from as soon as we got married, but I wanted to wait so we could enjoy our first couple of years together."

The couple had been married for two years after a holiday romance in Tenerife.

Their world was torn apart when he was gunned down just hours after he'd kissed her goodbye and told her: "Love you. See you later."

Now Eilisa, 25, keeps her husband's police helmet on top of the TV in his memory.

"He was proud of being a policeman, he loved it," she said.

Scream

"I wanted his hat on the telly so I could see it all the time."

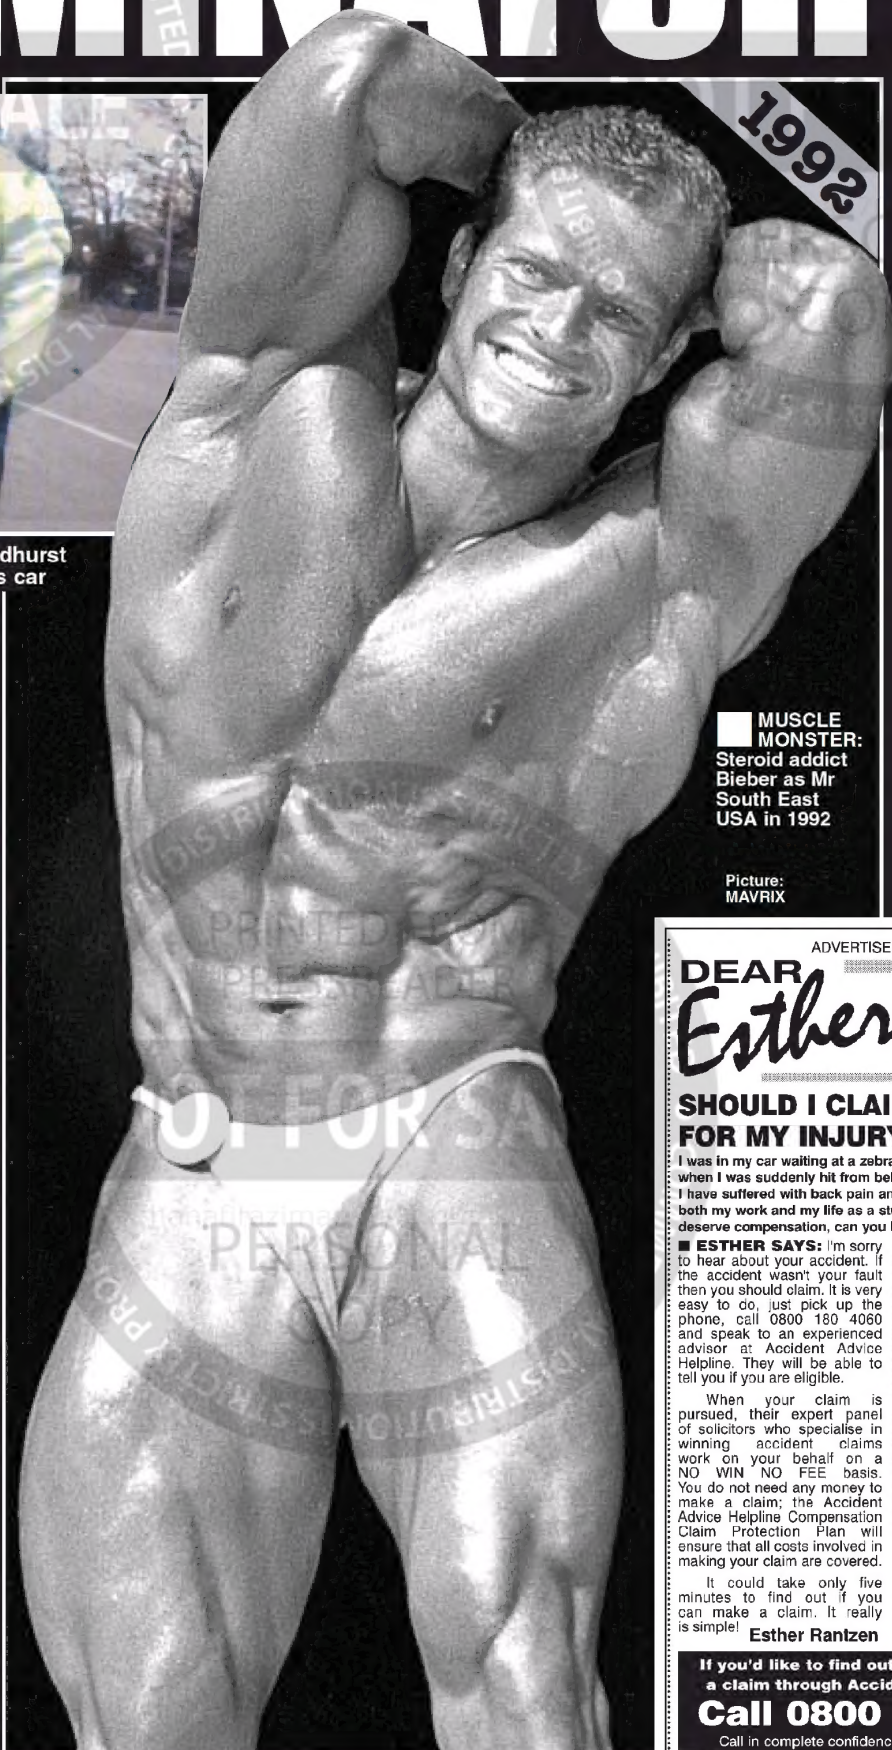

Ian's friend and police colleague Kevin Judd went to her home to break the news. Eilisa said: "I thought, 'It'll just be a car accident. Ian will be in hospital but it'll be all right'."

"I looked at Kev. He said, 'Just sit down.'"

"I screamed. The neighbour next door said afterwards she'd heard the scream."

"The pain - I couldn't explain how much that hurt. I couldn't put it into words how awful that night was."

BEATEN: April Fadelly

Lust for teenage toy girl

MONSTER David Bieber revelled in a kinky sex life - despite having shrivelled private parts due to steroid abuse.

He used call girls, visited massage parlours and once blackmailed an under-age girl into sex romps.

April Fadelly was only 16 - two years below the age of consent in Florida - when Bieber took her virginity.

Pest

The control freak filmed their romps and gave her brutal beatings.

"He threatened to kill me and my family," said April, now 30.

In England, Bieber was sacked as a club bouncer after a barmaid complained he was a sex pest.

A clubber said: "He loved the girls' attention. It's hilarious to think he was hung like a mouse."

New revelations rock under-fire Minister

BLUNKO ON THE BRINK

HANGING ON: David Blunkett

Gun lads nabbed

PALS who took toy guns to a youth club as a prank were arrested by police. Luke Johnson, 13, and Liam Spencer, 11, were sent home by the vicar but a driver saw their guns and called 999 in Yeovil. Their parents called it a "major over-reaction".

Bullseye for Bullitt

CLASSIC car chase flick Bullitt, starring Steve McQueen, was named the coolest movie of all time yesterday.

It beat competition from Paul Newman's prison drama Cool Hand Luke in the list produced by TV Times.

Girl's hair torched

A YOUNG girl battling cancer had her newly-grown hair set on fire by a playground bully.

Bianca Powell, 11, from Swansea, south Wales, ran screaming to a teacher who patted out the flames. Police have bailed a 14-year-old boy.

by MACER HALL, Political Editor
SCANDAL-hit David Blunkett plunged deeper into despair last night.

The Home Secretary's hopes of hanging on to his Cabinet job were disintegrating fast in the growing visa row about ex-lover Kimberly Quinn's nanny. Mr Blunkett has denied pulling Home Office strings to help Filipino Leoncia Casalmé to stay in the UK.

But a string of embarrassing new claims saw his defence unravelling.

It emerged that the nanny's claim would have been overseen by Home Office Permanent Secretary John Gieve, - a close friend of the Blunkett inquiry chief, Sir Alan Budd.

Mr Blunkett, 57, claims to be the father of Mrs Quinn's two-year-old son and unborn child and has told friends he would rather quit than lose access to the kids.

Sinner

The latest setbacks for Blunkett included:

● Ms Casalmé alleging Ms Quinn promised help with her visa application, saying: "I'll see what I can do. I have a friend."

● Allegations that he asked his officials to "look over" a Home Office letter warning the application would take a year to check.

● Ms Casalmé received a mysterious phone call suggesting her application went "straight to Mr Blunkett" for "special treatment".

Tory shadow Attorney General Dominic Grieve said last night: "If I understand the rules correctly, the application should not have been made until her four-year residence period in the UK was up."

Last night Mrs Quinn's 60-year-old husband Stephen defended his wife.

He said: "She is not the greatest sinner this country has produced."

"It is not right to keep attacking her."

A BIT HARSH

LITTLE Brad Killgallon has been expelled from nursery in Doncaster, Yorks, for biting kids - and he's only 18 months old.

Posh blooms

MUM-TO-BE Victoria Beckham is simply blooming. The former Spice Girl was a picture of health judging a model competition in China yesterday.

Fashion conscious Posh, 30, six months pregnant with her third child, was still using her favourite poncho trick to hide her bump at the competition in Shanghai.

One on-looker said: "Pregnancy obviously agrees with her. She looked every bit the star mum - and had a little twinkle in her eye."

HUSH HUSH

WHICH shameless star is a serial shagger – but can't actually admit to it? The bloke in question claims he is a clean-living perfectionist, however, we know different. He in fact strings a plethora of love interests along at the same time but tells them individually that he is devoted to them. We wonder when they will find out what a cheat he really is.

THINGS must be a bit boring down at Beekingham Palace of late. We can reveal that Becks has already splashed out on a Christmas pressie for Posh, 30 – and it's not the normal Cartier watch or Ferrari. Nope, David, 29, bought the entire Sex And The City boxset for his lady when he hit London's Virgin Megastore to promote his Really Bend It Like Beckham ball-skills DVD. Maybe he's trying to tell old Posh something.

DENISE DATES KELLY'S EX

OUTEN ABOUT: Denise

Picture: ILLUSTRATION BY LUCY KELLY

Kelly is lord of the ring

JUST as Jason Statham starts to move on with his love life, old flame Kelly Brook, 25, has dropped the biggest hint yet that new beau Billy Zane HAS popped the question. Joking with Frank Skinner about the huge sparkler on her engagement finger she said: "There's no need to say anything!" Gushing about Zane, 38, she revealed, "He's really romantic", and insisted she and Jason are "still the best of friends". They'll be having double dates in no time.

DENISE Van Outen has found herself a new man – Kelly Brook's ex, Jason Statham.

The stunning blonde, who split with nightclub owner Richard Traviss last month, had dinner with the Lock, Stock star in south London.

They have known each other through mutual friends for years and met up at the suggestion of actor pal Nick Moran, 35.

He thought the two could commiserate about their newly solo status together.

But our spies tell us that sparks flew over the costly curry they shared at the posh Three Monkeys restaurant in Herne Hill.

"Denise and Jase have always clicked as mates," our source told us.

"But he's been with Kelly for years and Denise was with Richard and Jay Kay before him.

"Nick and Denise had a brief thing, too, and have stayed close.

"They're all part of the Brit pack – they stick together as they're a down-to-earth lot – not stuffy like some of the American stars can be.

Fancy

"When Nick found he was out of town on the night he'd planned to see Jason, he roped Denise in. And while she jumped at the chance to spend an evening with him, she didn't think that they'd hit off quite so well.

"They had a brilliant time and both realised that they fancy the pants off each other.

"Obviously they both discussed their break-ups but they found they had much, much more to talk about... and they've continued to do so. It's been a texting and phoning frenzy since."

As they're both so busy and Jason, 32, spends most of his time in the States, planning their next date has become a logistical nightmare. But Denise, 30, loves America and pals say she's planning to go out there to spend time with her new fella – and maybe have a crack at the movies.

Our mole added: "Jase is a London lad too, so he'll happily make a base here.

"After all, he was planning to do that with Kelly. "But he always said he preferred blondes!"

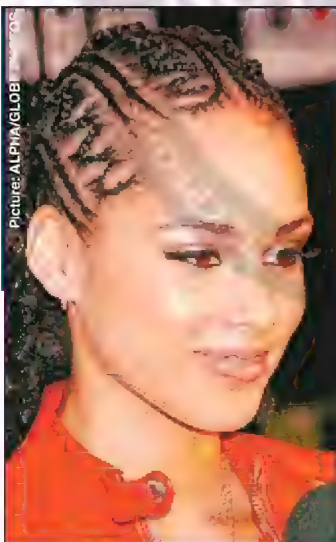

SPOTTED

IN London: Jamie Cullum Christmas shopping on Kensington High Street, Blue's Lee Ryan looking sad outside Po Na Na, Hammersmith, Emma Bunton and boyfriend Jade Jones snogging in Toast, Hampstead and Damon Albarn, Trevor Nelson and Kate Moss at Kabaret, Soho. Elsewhere: Rio Ferdinand hailing a cab on Deansgate, Manchester, and Charlotte Church munching on a cheeseburger in McDonald's, Cardiff.

IT appears there's a little bit of friction in the north London trendy gang – gorgeous model Kate Moss, 30, has slammed newcomer Sienna Miller, 22, because she reckons Sienna has copied her style.

We're told the Croydon-born mum-of-one is annoyed that Sienna, who is going out with Dave "Jude" Law, 32, has stolen her signature "boho chic" style.

Our source revealed: "Kate thinks Sienna copies her bags and shoes, pulling two quite different pieces of clothing together. She made a 'that bitch is wearing my shoes' comment over a pair of black Birkenstock sandals that Kate wore first and Sienna wore the next day." Now, now, girls.

KEYS CUT: Alicia's new hair style

Rio grand

ALICIA Keys looked stunning at the Pusher's Ball in New York – despite her interesting choice of hairstyle.

A Rio Ferdinand – she even went for the red strip – with intricate braids isn't the easiest of looks to pull off. But we think she managed it with panache.

And the big-hearted singer dug deep to support the Keep A Child Alive appeal, which was the reason behind the ritzy event.

See, she may look like a red devil but she's an angel underneath.

STREATHAM strop Naomi Campbell has been given a ticking off by her hunky boyfriend Usher, who has ordered that she undergoes anger management.

US singer Ush, 26, has told the 34-year-old supermodel to calm down – or it's over.

A source close to the trendy pair said: "Naomi has a very fiery temper and it sometimes rubs Usher up the wrong way.

"He's very chilled, and needs her to join him. But it seems the only way she can do that is with a little help."

LOVESTRUCK Drew Barrymore is infuriating her co-stars by insisting on listening to nothing but her boyfriend's album. The 29-year-old, who is dating The Strokes rocker Fabrizio Moretti, 24, reportedly plays the record constantly on the set of Fever Pitch.

A source revealed: "It's a great album, but Drew insists we put it on repeat. By the end of the day everybody feels like they've heard enough Strokes music to last a lifetime." That's dedication for you...

HAVE YOU GOT SOME JUICY GOSSIP FOR US?

QUICKIES...QUICKIES...QUICKIES...QUICKIES...QUICKIES...

■ FINALLY a celeb who admits to being a diva. Scarlett Johansson has confessed she is partial to throwing a strop. The 19-year-old said: "I'm whiny about things, like, 'oh, but can't you deliver that thing here, otherwise I'll have to walk!'"

■ FIRST it was Eminem. Now Robbie Williams is splashing out on skin-care creams to keep his youthful looks. The baby-faced 30-year-old was seen in LA buying wrinkle-preventing products. A shopper said: "He picked the dearest ones." We don't doubt it.

■ POP prince Justin Timberlake's film career is going from strength to strength. The 23-year-old is about to play Iron Man. Our source said: "Justin has blown people away with his ability as an actor and movie bigwigs are queuing up to get him." Just like the girls, then.

Hot Abi has Loads a fun with fella

WHAT is it with Abi Titmuss and her men? The shameless telly babe grabbed herself a new fella – Gavin Dixon – and whisked him straight home after meeting him at the Loaded LAFTA awards after-party at Pangaea.

Abi, 27, who used to date former Blue Peter presenter John Leslie, made no secret of her efforts to get him home, despite being propositioned inside at the bash by IT boy Calum Best.

But it was a different story for our girl Lucy Pinder. The gorgeous Daily Star lass looked suitably unimpressed when she was cornered by a grease monkey outside the same London club.

She shunned the fella, choosing – unlike Abi – to go home alone.

Tabby pines for his family

X FACTOR hopeful Tabby Callaghan has pledged his love for his girlfriend and son. Irish rocker Tabby, 23, slammed recent reports that he and Anna Leask, 28, were on the verge of breaking up. Tabby, right, said that they were helping him get through the hit telly talent show. He and Anna are

Jonathan Ansell, 22, Michael Christie, 23, Matt Stiff, 24, and Ben Thapa, 22, all got trendy new styles. They go into the semi-finals singing a version of Queen's Bohemian Rhapsody. DANCING QUEENS TO DO BATTLE Xmas clash on cards

BBC bosses have lined up a titanic Christmas clash to find Strictly Come Dancing's champion of champions.

They will pit sexy Natasha Kaplinsky against the winners of the current series to crown the show's Dancing Queen.

Bookies say EastEnders Jill Halfpenny and partner Darren Bennett are firm favourites to win the series, with singer Aled Jones and his partner Lilia Koplyova just behind in the betting. But Natasha, 32, and dance partner Brendan Cole could face a tough test in the showdown after he upset viewers.

Rude

They were outraged with the way he treated Sarah Manners before they went out of the current series.

Fans of the Casualty star said he was "rude and unpleasant" during rehearsals and have vowed to get their own back.

An insider told the Daily

Star: "They could really be up against it. Brendan could turn in the performance of his life and earn perfect 'tens' from the judges – but it might not cut much ice with the public."

An outsider to make it to the final is camp comic Julian Clary.

He's considered the weakest dancer but is hugely popular with the viewers.

News in brief

BEA-LINE FOR BLOKES

THE Duchess of York now goes "out on the pull" with her teenage daughter.

Sarah Ferguson, 45, admits she adores eyeing up the fellas with 16-year-old Princess Beatrice - in the hope of landing the loves of their lives.

"We always talk about boyfriends," she said. "Bea longs for me to have one and I long for her to have one."

ON PULL: Fergie

Blades beat guns

BRITAIN'S shocking blade culture is now "a bigger threat than gun crime". Knives are the most common murder weapon, and blades are an everyday accessory for teenagers.

Figures showed there were 14,110 knife crimes in London last year - one every 25 minutes.

Richard Barnes, Tory spokesman on the Metropolitan Police Authority, said of the problem highlighted by the Daily Star in September: "Knife crime is a bigger threat than gun crime in my view. It's the schoolchildren who carry them."

GEORGE'S LIBEL
VICTORY

ANGRY: Galloway

MP George Galloway won £150,000 libel damages yesterday from the Daily Telegraph over allegations he took cash from Saddam Hussein.

The paper, which claimed he was a "greedy crook", will also have to fork out £1.2m in legal costs.

Mr Galloway, 50, said: "I have had to risk everything to obtain vindication. I feel angry I was forced to do this."

Hell camp shocker

NEARLY half of all Brits have never heard of Auschwitz, according to a shock survey.

The BBC carried out the poll ahead of Holocaust Memorial Day, which marks the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the Nazi death camp in which a million people died.

Of 4,000 adults surveyed, 45% said they had never heard of Auschwitz. Among women and the under-35s, the figure was as high as 60%.

The BBC is planning a series of programmes to mark Holocaust Memorial Day on January 27.

BOND'S OO-SO CORNY!

JAMES BOND'S chat-up lines are so naff they'd earn him a knee in the groin in real life, say film buffs.

And Pierce Brosnan, whose Bond days are now behind him, is responsible for one of the worst, says movie mag Empire.

In Die Another Day he tells a girl: "I'm an ornithologist - I'm studying birds of the West Indies."

Death driver jailed

THE families of three teenagers killed in a crash hit out after the driver was jailed for seven years.

Darren Isaacson tried to blame one of his dead friends for being at the wheel after the car ploughed into a river. But the 21-year-old, of Ely, Cambs, was found guilty of causing death by dangerous driving after a trial at Cambridge Crown Court.

Jasmine Kent, whose 19-year-old daughter Lisa died with Samuel Murphy and Daniel Davy, both 15, said: "We believe he got off very lightly. He only got seven years and we have a life sentence."
